DON O. SEMORA HAS FORGED DOCUMENTS IN THE PAST

Semora loves to play the victim

What's very interesting is if you listen to what he accuses people of, he tells you what he is doing. Don Semora, where were you stationed? What was your MOS? What was your rank? NO service member talks about a DD214. That was possibly forged. Update

POW Network <info@pownetwork.org>

"Found NO service in any branch in the online database since 1985."

" Human Resources Command said they found no records either there in the repository or NPPRC "

Scammer alert!

Been a RPF member for a while but slowly making my way back into the hobby again. Think I may have been scammed by Don Semora of Replica Forge as well. Yeah I know I'm part of the blame for being so gullible but when you have two parents you're looking after due to illness time flies. Ordered a Bandai Falcon to be pro built last July. Going to see what my credit card company can do about my $700. Below are my messages from Don as well. He also sent progress pics but I'm beginning to think they were stock photos of past projects. I'm posting them in case anyone else has received the exact same pics me.

Crazy how cardstock would be of any interest to Customs. Appreciate the update and your work at looking at alternatives. Not sure though if shipped games from China would get through Customs any faster than cardstock though :)

Wizard Tower Games Creator 29 days ago

I do not think it was my stock that was of interest. I was told that the container was "problematic" so I imagine it was something else within it that held up everyone else. This delay is why we went through the added cost and ordered also games direct.

UPDATE #23

5-15-23 UPDATE

Wizard Tower Games Creator May 15, 2023

Hello everyone! Sorry for not updating in a few weeks we have been busy here getting the web part of this project edited and made better. We know this project is late, we thought it would be a great idea to make it a "Made In House" project.

We as everyone knows have had delays over some customs issues with some of our materials. We were notified about a week or so ago our materials were being released, so that is great news. However as of a few moments ago the materials are not tracking to us yet. So we tomorrow will be going to customs and seeing if we cannot get with our import representative and see what is happening.

However as of a few moments ago the materials are not tracking to us yet. So we tomorrow will be going to customs and seeing if we cannot get with our import representative and see what is happening.

We do have the ability to have a manufacturer in China make these games, and as a safeguard on Friday I went ahead and ordered enough games from them to cover the Kickstarter and them some. We would prefer to make them ourselves but at this point we want out supporters to get their games. We hope we still can make them, but at the end of the day games in YOUR hands is more important. This is a very complicated and unique project and one that we know you will love once you get it.

The idea of having QR codes in games is one we plan to run with in other projects, this is our ice breaker project and one with Tim's voice will be something very special. We apologize for the lateness in this, we just wanted to do something special, and thanks to Customs it kind of backfired on us.

Jan 11, 2023 UPDATE

Wizard Tower Games Creator
January 11, 2023

Hello everyone!

We have been busy as three goblins in a burlap bag here. We wanted to give an update as to the project. We are on track for this Friday to get the remaining paperstocks and cardstock for the game from U.S. Customs.

Wizard Tower Games  January 11, 2023

Hello everyone!

We have been busy as three goblins in a burlap bag here. We wanted to give an update as to the project. We are on track for this Friday to get the remaining paperstocks and cardstock for the game from U.S. Customs.

Yesterday we made all the final recordings with Tim Kask (See pics) and that went perfect. We could not have asked for it to go better. We are on track currently to make our January shipping of games, and plan to be posting production imagery in an update next week.

We appreciate everyone's support on this, and for those of you who have supported us with a dollar, and want to upgrade to a full game, we are in process of setting that up on the D20 Delving Website, and that should be up this weekend. We will link in an update once that happens.

ATTACKS ON TSR AND ANYONE CONNECTED

Don's Post

Brian Scott: At this point, I'm not sure what to say. Does he not know by filing a false police report he just committed a crime (in this case, a felony)? And to top that off, he wants to play games with 1099s? Does he not understand how bad falsifying tax documents really is? At this rate, he won't just be bankrupt; I honestly think he may end up in prison.

Richard T. Baldwin: He must want to go to jail.

TK Kennedy: I hope that justice is swift and unforgiving for the heinous acts he's committed against you your family and others.

Stephen Santorsola: Take the officers with you to testimony. Witness tampering/intimidation isn't tolerated at any level.

Jack McNaughton: Well, get a sworn statement from them affirming your innocence, at any rate.

Don Semora (Author): Jack McNaughton An email detailing that was already sent to my attorney, along with the official notification the case was closed and no charged issued.

Jack McNaughton: Don Semora That's good. Once they show Justin's obvious pattern of bullying, the judge (and/or jury) will be heavily prejudiced against any further commentary by Justin or his lawyer once it's established that they're just trying to harass you.

Comments from other users like Telestop RPG News, RPG Grandma, Big Vic, and Wizard Tower Games follow, discussing the situation and legal aspects.

As way of explanation. Justin filed a false police report on me, and tried to have felony charges place on me. He did it as he is scared as to my testimony, and the best way to discredit me would be to have me arrested.

The investigation has concluded and the case has been closed with no charges. Justin Lanasa is a real scumbag, he has no low too low he will go. He sent the police to my house, scared my daughter and went low.

He gambled on my not documenting my dealings with him, thank God I did document everything. Including handwriting experts to prove I was innocent. The man is now moving to other scumbaggery.

He is now sending me a 1099 trying to say everything was paid under his Hardwire Tattoo parlor and tossed an extra 10 grand onto the 1099 he never paid me. When in fact he needs to give me 1099 forms from ALL the businesses he paid me from. But not all the money was for labor, most of it was material / and rights to the game he purchased. So he is trying to pull a tax break for labor paid, that IN FACT is not / was not labor.

This is no way is over. He went too far and I WILL be taking action. I will be sure to ensure all filings, exhibits etc will be listed here publicly for all to see.

The man literally lied to police, tried to have me charged, just so he can get away with this scheme is is trying against Wizards of the Coast.

Lori Lye · That 1099 nonsense is going to get his company looking at his various tax dodges under a microscope as they discover more and more wrongdoing to see how many mistakes he's made.

Every day those fines against Lanasa's family will be a shame if someone were to report him to the Something like that would cut off his money flow.

Charlie Flair · That is tax fraud. I had a boss who did that some time in small barred rooms with large bad idea to defraud the IRS, it's a felony. I n gotta be good for Justin, right?

And it sounds Don like you're much better him to the IRS if he falsified the 1099.

to get his company audited by the I.R.S. - If they start digging under a microscope, he'll most likely be ruined for all and more wrongdoing and keep looking deeper and deeper it's made.

LaNasa's family will grow larger and larger.

to report him to the I.R.S. for a business audit... cut off his money flow and get him in deep trouble.

a boss who did that to us once, and he is not spending red rooms with large friendly men. Because it's not just a I.R.S. it's a felony. I mean, if it's good for Al Capone, it's in, right?

you're much better at bringing receipts than JL. Report off the 1099s.

The screenshots show a forum thread with several posts:

- Post 1: Joe Stash says almost every post office has cameras now. Paul Kidd replies that it shouldn't be hard if it's one of their crew.
- Post 2: David Flor, Admin and Group expert, says nobody deserves this. Sorry you have to put up with it, but keep fighting the good fight.
- Post 3: Ed Liberatore says sorry to hear that the police can't intervene in this instance. He adds that it most certainly counts as potential witness intimidation/tampering. He suggests sending it straight to lawyers/judges.
- Post 4: Jack McNaughton says ignore him, none of his fake photocopies or meaningless insults matter. He's already finished in the industry, and as a businessman.
- Post 5: Don Semora, Author and Top contributor, says games being played are just that. The POS game player will have their day. Eventually all of this will come to a head, and all the giggles and adolescent games will bite them in their ass.

Below the posts are several small screenshots of what appears to be a game interface.

I wonder if their single-digit following of hard core hangers on are even buying their BS at this point.

This one is so transparently a slapped together con job, it's pretty much an insult to anyone still following them, and perhaps trying to support them and buy their games.

Always to take advantage of a deal on Drive Thru. A couple of his titles were on my wish list and his $1.25 mark down made it a good time to pounce (and give Tenkar a small appreciation amount)

I remember coming in to the RPG hobby online a couple years ago during the pandemic, we had to be online to keep playing. This stuff has just been awful and it's several times made me almost want to just accept not playing so I wouldn't have to deal with it anymore (no groups in my area). I have some great friends I enjoy playing with, but inevitably hateful people like this company Leyline and others try to harm and control constantly. I've learned some ways to be careful and watch for people like that to not allow them to hurt or slander people in our play club...

Game Publishers need to be cognizant of who they hire and work with. But we also have to be careful that if we are going to draw what we feel is a socially moral line, then we need to be consistent. I have been called out over my dealings with TSR in the past. Now people like Tenkar and more know the reasons and my actions regarding that. However, also someone could look at us and see that part of our history and make an assumption as to our character etc. My question for this company would be this, did they talk to the editor, ask the reasons why, what their stances on issues are now? Was this legitimate support for questionably bad thing, or were they not aware of the entire project, and such. I can hire an editor to edit a RPG as an example and hand them lets say the monsters section. They edit it, yet would they know about the Classes and Races (cough cough SFNG). Maybe what that editor worked on had no problematic content, I would love to hear from the editor... Also, as noted above, editors are not always aware of the entirety of the work they are editing "part" of... I however before I would fire and make some public post about someone, talk to them first. Then in my post ensure I let people know of that discussion. Just FOOD FOR THOUGHT!

Brainless. I 100% disagree. Any non-ironic use of the phrase "problematic content" should be grounds for skepticism, ridicule, and actual questioning if that person has enough brain cells to walk and chew gum at the same time. Even entertaining the suggestion that Leyline Press (or similar RPG companies) had basically the right idea, simply the wrong approach has no idea how awful the current situation has become. We've been in disaster mode for so long that many of us can no longer see it for ourselves. Dangerous times, indeed, host!

Since I am a confirmed Purchaser
Reviewed in the United States on February 22, 2023
Verified Purchase

This game has racist tropes in it, combined with content not suitable for kids makes it a no go. I purchased this game and see other reviews who are the author using various accounts to give 5 stars. The game has grammar and editing issues. The rules are NOT complete, they leave the player having to guess how to play large portions of it. I am not sure also why the author has to attack those he dislikes in it, as in the module inside of it there is an NPC that he uses as a way to attack a person the author dislikes.

He also steps on Tolkiens IP with the insertion of Hobbits in this, which he has denied doing on social media, yet it is in the game. I on my YouTube give a detailed review of this game with images etc, my YouTube has the same name as I review here under. I suggest you look for it. My other issues are many with this. The worst are the racist tropes inside of it, which allow you to be a white Goblin who is always a victim, and everyone wants to be like. Or you can be a black goblin which no one likes, and who is good for creating violence. I also will add it has the player being able to be a Slave which I think is tacky and not okay for kids. I will also note that the spells in this game many directly take from D&D which is a shame.

A pity Amazon allows non purchasers to review books. But being the only VERIFIED purchaser of this game, I will say warning. It is offensive, confusing, nor is it complete. Not suitable for kids or even adults really. Again, I back everything in my review on my YouTube review.

My end note here will be to also let the potential customer know that of the content in this book over half of it is not the game or rules, it is full of advertisements for the authors businesses, and also a game module. Actual core rules is less than 10 pages, with the bulk of the core rules being spell lists.

What does it matter, honestly, what the editor's stances or opinions on "the issues" are, or if they were cognizant or ignorant of the "critiques" levied against his former employer? Freelancers freelance. They work for pay.

The potential libel in this scenario is that the editor holds to the political views of his employer. But why not associate that editor with the politics of his most recent employer? Should I refuse to hire that editor for being associated with a woke company that is willing to fire and deny credit to editors on the grounds of holding politics that the editor might not actually hold?

If you want to hold to a political litmus test in your hiring, then it is on you to do your due diligence. If you fail to do that, then do as this company did (and why are we avoiding naming this company?) and fire him and remove his name from your credits. But what you don't do is publicly slander the guy in a multi-tweet thread, trying to get him cancelled from any further work.

Lastly, I don't know the legality of hiring/firing/refusing to hire persons based on their politics. I'm sure laws differ. Also, not a lawyer. Maybe because they don't specifically name him, they may be able to avoid a lawsuit. Even so, I hope he (or she) sues them anyways for slander, libel, defamation, breach of contract, discrimination, tortious interference, hostile work environment, wrongful termination, or whatever all the law allows.

No big deal, that is how I see it. I Hope that everything is well over there, in all ways, and a Happy New Year to you.

Hi Don!

This is just a heads up.

Someone posted that you are a scam over at the 1st Edition AD&D group.

I don't believe this is true. I was VERY impressed when you were over at Tenkar's and you said that for Kickstarters, you create the item first, then do the Kickstarter.

If there is anything I can do to help, let me know. Things might get ugly over there.

So far, it seems like it is slander and/or libel directed at you.

I wish I had better news, but I just saw this a few minutes ago.

OK, just woke up here

This was shown to me last night 6-14-23 and was posted as you can see 21 hours before hand, so roughly posted on 6-13 aprox.

The account posted that website Lanasa had made about me.

On the previous page you can see that John Scott the 1st Edition ADD&D group owner confirmed it.

Justin then went under it directly and posted. See Page 5

Re: TSR LLC Violating Protective Order in TSR LLC v. Wizards of the Coast LLC
Case No. 2:21-cv-01705-SKV (W.D. Wash.)

Dear Mr. Butler:

I represent Wizards of the Coast LLC in litigation involving TSR LLC, Justin LaNasa, and the Dungeon Hobby Shop Museum, Case No. 2:21-cv-01705-SKV (W.D. Wash.). This litigation has been stayed due to TSR LLC's pending bankruptcy petition. See 2:21-cv-01705, Dkt. 57. I write to inform you of violations of a protective order entered in that litigation and Wizards' intent to enforce that order. I have copied on this communication Dayna Christian, Nicole McMillan, and Russell Nugent, counsel for TSR LLC and the affiliated parties (the "LaNasa Parties") in the Western District of Washington case.

In November 2022, well before TSR LLC filed its bankruptcy petition, the Western District of Washington court entered the parties' Stipulated Protective Order Governing Conduct. See 2:21-cv-01705, Dkt. 47. I have attached that Order as Exhibit A to this letter for your ease of reference. Under that Order, parties are barred from "any direct or indirect conduct to improperly influence testimony or participation in this lawsuit," including

- any public, limited audience, or private statements intended to or likely to have the effect of harassing, intimidating, threatening, or otherwise improperly influencing Witnesses or a Party in this litigation;
- the actual or threatened dissemination of any personal information about Witnesses or a Party, including information of a personal nature regardless of whether it may be available in the public domain;
- use of a Witness's or a Party's name or likeness in a derogatory or harassing manner;
- false and intentionally harassing reports to law enforcement about a Witness or a Party;

June 20, 2023

- solicitation, encouragement, or suggestion for others to perform any conduct barred by this Protective Order; and
- any other behavior intended to or likely to have the effect of improperly influencing a Witness or a Party.

Wizards sought and the parties ultimately stipulated to this Order after third-party witnesses and subpoena recipients Don Semora and Michael Hovermale were subjected to harassing and threatening posts online and in direct communications. Among other things, Mr. Semora was the subject of a highly harassing website, donosemora.com. This website publicized personal information about Mr. Semora and disparaged him and his businesses. As counsel for Wizards, I contacted the LaNasa Parties' counsel regarding this website and other harassment occurring in September and October 2022. Although Ms. Christian would not state directly whether the LaNasa Parties were behind the donosemora.com website and the full range of harassing behavior targeting Mr. Semora and Mr. Hovermale, the website and offending posts were taken down by or at the direction of the LaNasa Parties following communication with counsel. I have attached as Exhibit B to this letter selected correspondence between counsel demonstrating this history.

To Wizards' knowledge, these harassing activities ceased for some time in compliance with the Order. However, since TSR LLC filed for bankruptcy on June 8, it appears that the perpetrators of the witness intimidation and harassment have resumed their behavior. The donosemora.com website is back up as of June 14 or earlier. Anonymous posts on Facebook have directed users to that site, referring to Mr. Semora as a "grifter." And Mr. LaNasa, posting on his own account, wrote that Mr. Semora "has caused a lot of others in the publishing/game industry a lot of strife, confusion, and injury," threatening that "he will see the scales of justice very soon." I have attached as Exhibit C to this letter examples of this behavior, captured by my law firm or sent to us by Mr. Semora.

Wizards takes extremely seriously these efforts to harass and intimidate witnesses in the Western District of Washington case, which directly violate the court's Order and offend the judicial process. As I'm sure you are aware, all laws remain effective in bankruptcy as they do at any other time. 28 U.S.C. § 959(b). We therefore intend to seek to enforce this Order.

We request that you (1) inform your client TSR LLC, and Mr. LaNasa as its principal, that the Protective Order in the Western District of Washington remains effective and bars activities intended to or likely to have the effect of harassing, intimidating, threatening, or otherwise improperly influencing witnesses in that case. Please also (2) direct Mr. LaNasa to remove the offending materials and cease any further activities of this nature, or, if appropriate, to direct his associates to do the same. Finally, we request (3) that you let us know your position regarding whether the bankruptcy stay precludes a motion to enforce the Order in the Western District of Washington. While we intend to seek the Bankruptcy Court's confirmation of our procedural rights, we would appreciate knowing whether you would oppose on the basis of the stay such a filing in the Western District of Washington case.

We request your response on the first two items in the paragraph above by June 22, and your answer regarding the stay by June 28.

Sincerely,

Davis Wright Tremaine LLP

Dayna,

Your refusal to answer the question of whether your client is behind the Donosemora.com website is a tacit admission that your client created the website. If your client did not create the website, please simply state that. If you continue to refuse to answer this question, we will take that as an admission that your client created the website. This will come up in depositions either way, so I don't understand your refusal to answer the question.

Neither MaryAnn nor I identified Mr. Semora and Mr. Hovermale as "WOTC representatives" during the hearing. The courtroom deputy made that statement, and I do not know why she made that statement. We had no knowledge that they would be attending the hearing, and we never would have characterized them as representatives of Wizards of the Coast. I reiterate again, Mr. Semora and Mr. Hovermale are not representatives or affiliates of Wizards of the Coast, and we do not represent them. The Court expressly acknowledged these facts during the hearing. While she cautioned them to not engage in the behavior that was the subject of the hearing, she acknowledged that they would not be bound by the protective order.

If you somehow believe that DWT or Wizards of the Coast is responsible for the conduct of Mr. Semora or Mr. Hovermale, please explain the basis for your position so that we may address it with the Court, if needed.

Lauren,

Please do not make any assumptions about my prior email – I was very clear and made no such acknowledgement.

At the beginning of the hearing, the unidentified callers were reported to the Court to be “WOTC representatives” by either you or MaryAnn (I can’t recall which of you made that representation to the Court). Later in the hearing, when the callers were required to identify themselves, Mr. Hovermale reported that he was attending “on behalf of WOTC” or something to that extent. I believe Mr. Semora made the same representation.

The Court was careful to not only address Mr. Hovermale and Mr. Semora directly, but also to ensure that the draft PO included all direct and indirect actions by any party and to include all affiliates of any party. Based on the introduction of the callers and their own introductions to the Court, it was made clear that both men are affiliates of WOTC.

Please let me know if you disagree. Maybe it won’t matter at all if no one violates the Court’s instructions.

Thanks.

Hi Dayna,

I will take your answer below as an acknowledgement that your client created the Donosemora.com website. Please correct me if that is inaccurate.

We appreciate that you have instructed your client to immediately comply with the Court’s instructions today. Wizards of the Coast has never engaged in the conduct discussed today, and it will continue refraining from such conduct in accordance with the Court’s instructions.

With respect to conduct by Mr. Semora and Mr. Hovermale, as you know, I do not represent them and they are not parties to this lawsuit. As such, they are not bound by the forthcoming protective order, and I have no ability to control their actions. However, both were present during the hearing, and I anticipate they will act in accordance with the Court’s instructions.

Lauren,

I'm told that the video is now down.

I not aware of any intention for the Don Semora website to be live while this case is pending.

I have no idea who may have sent the Anonymousemails to Don Semora and/or Michael Hovermale but I believe that my client is being truthful when he says that it was not him.

Mr. Griffin is a known affiliate of Don Semora and Michael Hovermale. My client and I were not aware of the claim that "Liam Bombardo" is actually Mr. Griffin and question whether that's an accurate claim. Regardless, I trust that the Court's admonition to all parties and witnesses will extend to "indirect" activities such as those of Mr. Griffin.

I've instructed my client to consider the Court's instructions for our pending Protective Order as a directive for immediate compliance. That would include the subjects raised in your email below. I trust you've done the same on your end.

Thank you.

Thank you for your attention in having that removed.

Could you please confirm whether your clients or any of their family members or associates are behind the Donosemora.com website? If so, please confirm that the website will be permanently taken down.

Could you also please confirm whether your clients or any of their family members or associates sending anonymous emails to Mr. Semora or Mr. Hovermale or anonymously sending mass emails regarding those individuals? If so, please confirm this behavior will stop.

With respect to the Liam Barbardo account name, I have been contacted by a gentleman named Scott Griffin who confirmed that is his account. I also understand that Mr. Lanasa was aware Mr. Griffin was behind that account and that all of the messages between them were private—not publicly posted.

SO ORDERED.

SIGNED this 13 day of November, 2023.

A handwritten signature in blue ink that reads "David M. Warren".

David M. Warren
United States Bankruptcy Judge

IN THE UNITED STATES BANKRUPTCY COURT
FOR THE EASTERN DISTRICT OF NORTH CAROLINA
WILMINGTON DIVISION

In re: TSR LLC,

Case No.: 23-01577-5-DMW

Debtor.

CONSENT ORDER WITH REGARD WIZARDS OF THE COAST LLC'S MOTION FOR CONFIRMATION THAT THE AUTOMATIC STAY DOES NOT APPLY OR, IN THE ALTERNATIVE, FOR RELIEF FROM THE AUTOMATIC STAY

THIS MATTER is before the Court upon the consent of Movant Wizards of the Coast LLC (“Wizards”) and John C. Bircher, Chapter 7 Trustee (“Trustee”). Based on the consent of the parties, the Court makes the following findings of fact and conclusions of law:

FINDINGS OF FACT

1. Wizards has ongoing litigation pending in the United States District Court for the Western District of Washington with Debtor TSR LLC (“Debtor”), its principal and creditor Justin LaNasa (“LaNasa”), and Dungeon Hobby Shop Museum (“Museum”), an affiliated business (together, the “LaNasa Parties”), over infringement of Wizards’ common law trademark rights. That Washington litigation was automatically stayed by Debtor’s bankruptcy petition.

2. Wizards contends that following the Petition Date, LaNasa began violating a protective order from the Washington federal court that barred the parties from harassing or otherwise attempting to unduly influence witnesses in that case. Wizards contends that it needs to move the Washington court to enforce that protective order and for sanctions for its violation.

3. Wizards is a publisher of fantasy games, including the renowned Dungeons & Dragons game franchise, which it acquired through its 1997 acquisition of D&D’s original publisher TSR, Inc. In 2021, newly-formed TSR LLC sued Wizards in the Western District of Washington, seeking a declaratory judgment that Wizards does not own various trademarks originally established by TSR, Inc., including the work mark “TSR,” various logos, and marks for “Star Frontiers,” another game originally published by TSR, Inc. See 21-cv-1705, Dkt. 1 (W.D. Wash. Dec. 29, 2021). Wizards filed an answer stating its common-law trademark rights in the marks due to continuous use predating TSR LLC’s use and asserting counterclaims against Debtor, LaNasa, and the Museum for infringing its rights. 21-cv-1705, Dkt. 11.

4. In connection with the Washington litigation, Wizards subpoenaed third-party witnesses Don Semora and Michael Hovermale in fall 2022. Shortly after receiving these subpoenas, Semora and Hovermale were subjected to harassing and threatening posts online and in direct communications. Among other things, Semora was the subject of a highly harassing website, donosemora.com. This website publicized personal information about Semora and disparaged him and his businesses. Wizards’ counsel contacted the LaNasa Parties’ counsel regarding this website and other harassment occurring in September and October 2022, and it ultimately brought the behavior to the Washington court.

5. The Washington court entered the parties’ stipulated protective order on November 4, 2022. Under that order, parties are barred from “any direct or indirect conduct to improperly influence testimony or participation in this lawsuit,” including:

- any public, limited audience, or private statements intended to or likely to have the effect of harassing, intimidating, threatening, or otherwise improperly influencing Witnesses or a Party in this litigation;
- the actual or threatened dissemination of any personal information about Witnesses or a Party, including information of a personal nature regardless of whether it may be available in the public domain;
- use of a Witness’s or a Party’s name or likeness in a derogatory or harassing manner;
- false and intentionally harassing reports to law enforcement about a Witness or a Party;
- solicitation, encouragement, or suggestion for others to perform any conduct barred by this Protective Order; and
- any other behavior intended to or likely to have the effect of improperly influencing a Witness or a Party.

6. To Wizards' knowledge, these harassing activities ceased for some time in compliance with the protective order. However, when the Debtor filed for bankruptcy on June 8, 2023, the perpetrators of the witness intimidation and harassment allegedly resumed their behavior.

7. This alleged activity violated the Washington court's protective order and should be brought to that court's attention. See 21-cv-1705 Dkt. 47 ¶ 4 ("Any violation of this Protective Order shall be brought to the Court's attention."). Wizards filed its Motion seeking confirmation from this Court of its ability to do so without violating the bankruptcy stay, or, in the alternative, relief from the stay for that purpose.

CONCLUSIONS OF LAW

1. "As a general proposition, the stay imposed under § 362(a)(1) applies only to bar proceedings against the debtor, and does not apply to actions against non-debtor third parties or codefendants of the debtor." Holland v. High Power Energy, 248 B.R. 53, 57 (S.D.W. Va. 2000).

2. LaNasa and Museum are non-debtor third-parties and the automatic stay does not apply to those parties.

3. Pursuant to 11 U.S.C. § 541(a), the filing of the bankruptcy petition created an estate. The Trustee was appointed pursuant to Chapter 7 of the Bankruptcy Code. The creation of the estate and appointment of the Trustee had the legal effect of precluding LaNasa, and any other former officer or director of the Debtor, from acting on the Debtor's behalf. As a result, any conduct of LaNasa and/or Museum that occurred post-petition could not legally be imputed to the Debtor.

NOW THEREFORE, IT IS HEREBY ORDERED, ADJUDGED AND DECREED THAT:

A. The automatic stay does not apply to any action Wizards wishes to take with respect to LaNasa and/or Museum.

B. LaNasa's and/or Museum's post-petition conduct may not be legally imputed to the Debtor.
